

March 30, 2007

To Whom It May Concern:

Central Georgia Technical College had the privilege of having David Major speak to McEvoy Middle School in Macon, Georgia as part of a grant project designed to motivate middle school students to stay in school and pursue higher education. David did an excellent job holding the eighth grade students' attention. The middle school principal and faculty did not believe he could hold the students' attention for more than 30 minutes; however, David left everyone wanting more.

David does not lecture to the students; instead, he interacts with them. He is very energetic and uses real life examples that are entertaining and real attention grabbers, while emphasizing important points and life lessons. The eighth graders were very interested in David's personal experiences in work and school. He was able to discuss with the students school experiences that helped them feel better about their own experiences.

I would highly recommend David Major as a motivational speaker. He is very passionate and it is evident that he truly loves what he does. If you want someone who knows how to make students laugh, think, and learn to motivate themselves, then David Major is the best choice.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Kegley
Stay in School/High School Coordinator
Central Georgia Technical College